

PIZZA GARDEN

SUPPLIES

- 4" herbs– 3 or 4 plants such as basil, rosemary, oregano, thyme or parsley
- 16" pot with a drainage hole - remember Texas summers are hot so you will want a large pot to hold a bit of moisture
- Good quality potting soil - not top soil
- Pkg of Zinnia seeds - who doesn't need a few flowers for the table
- A sunny location receiving at least 6 hours of sun.

DIRECTIONS

After making sure there is a hole for drainage, add soil to the container and then moisten the soil in preparation for planting. Remove the plants from the container and arrange in the pot. The oregano and thyme will trail while the basil and parsley are upright. Think about where you will place the container . How will it be viewed? Leave an open spot in the middle to sprinkle a few zinnia seeds. When you are finished the soil level should be about 1 1/2" below the top of the planter. This will make watering much easier. The soil level on the plants should be the same as it was in the nursery containers. Water it well. Check to see the soil settled and If you need a touch more potting soil .

Maintenance is easy - Water when the soil dries out in the top inch or two. In the beginning it will go longer without water than it will when the containers is full of roots and The temperature hotter.

Most importantly - Cut and use the herbs!
It will make the plants fuller and .....

your pizza delish!

